ABOUT

Specialising in advising her clients on all aspects of commercial and corporate arrangements, Rachelle Sellek is a well-established lawyer with particular knowledge of outsourcing and software agreements. Recent successes have seen her advising a high-profile software service company on its commercial arrangements, providing trusted counsel regarding a global master services agreement, and acting for a client on a cross-border technology joint venture.

Rachelle's trustworthy, diligent reputation, built up over 20 years in the sector has led to invitations to sit on various professional bodies, most notably joining the steering group for Innovation Lab Wales – an organisation seeking to encourage innovation in LegalTech and Access to Justice whilst helping counter criminal and terrorist use of the internet.
